GOV. SCHRICKER WILL BE GUEST OF PUTNAM CO. SADDLE CLUB

Elaborate plans are being completed for the annual Putnam County Saddle Club horse show which will be held at the Indiana State farm on Sunday afternoon, June 24. The show will start at one o'clock.

Governor Henry F. Schricker will be a guest at the show and will participate in the awarding of the premiums. Albert Ellis, superintendent of the State Farm, is co-operating one hundred per cent in making the show a success. More than 1,000 persons at the farm will witness the various classes.

The first class will be jumpers. It is believed it will be one of the first jumping classes that has ever been held in a Putnam county show. In as much as the Putnam County Saddle Club is affiliated with the Indiana State Saddle Horse Association the show will be a "point show" and many horses which show in various state affiliated shows are expected to participate in the various events.

There will be both English and Western classes and some of the finest western parade horses in Indiana are expected. They will also display some of the finest silver equipped saddles and bridles that are in the state. Tickets for the show are in charge of Kappa Delta Phi whose members are now canvassing for the sale of tickets. Box seats are available at the Jones Variety Store, where a window display of horse equipment, ribbons and pictures of Putnam county horse will be made during the coming week. It should prove interesting and the public is invited to view the display.

Woman Jailed For Drunken Driving

Mrs. Grace Marie Sackett, 41, Cloverdale, was lodged in the Putnam county jail by Greensburg police officers on a drunken driving charge at 1:30 a. m. Saturday.

Police said they followed Mrs. Sackett's car from the public square after she failed to observe a stop sign at Jackson and Franklin streets. The police report said Mrs. Sackett almost hit another car before she was stopped at the corner of Indiana and Seminary streets.

About thirty minutes earlier, the local officers stopped C. R. Miller, Brazil Route 3, and gave him a ticket for speeding on Bloomington street. Miller will appear in court here next Saturday.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

OLD ASBURY DESTRUCTION

(In 1879 the principal building on the Asbury University (now DePauw) campus, known as "Old Asbury," was destroyed by fire. Here is a continuation of an account of the fire as carried in the GreenCastle Banner as of February 13, 1879.)—"A careful estimate of the losses is given, as follows: Building, $25,000; cabinet, $5,000; college furniture, $1,500; Whitcomb Library mostly saved, but in much damaged condition; some furniture belonging to the Japanese boys; about two hundred dollars' worth of M'Neef's furniture, Mrs. Clark's accounts and much damage to her pictures; some personal property belonging to others; and a great many of Prof. Baker's specimens, cases and scientific books, those that were saved being badly mutilated; besides the Ward Casts and some college apparatus in use by the Philosophical students.

No one can give any satisfactory explanation of the cause of the fire. It must have started between the ceiling of the fourth floor and the roof, well to the south. There was no possible chance for incendiaryism, as no possible access could have been had to that part of the building. The most rational theory seems to be that the chimneys, after fifty years of use, had cracked, and a stray spark blown into the attic, when the draught from the south transpired to the tower fanned the dry timbers into flame. The shingles themselves were sixteen years old, and the lath almost fifty. When the janitor heard the alarm he ran to the doors of the museum and tower, both of which he found locked as usual, but over in the attic a sheet of flame was pouring along the under side of the roof, north, into the tower.

Before the fire was near out he Faculty was in session to adjourn out of defeat. Mr. Southard met with them. The first question was what to do with the Preparatory classes. Supt. Lee and Alva Brockway, president of the City School Board, tendered, a person, the use of unoccupied rooms in some of the school buildings. A vote of thanks was made in return for this kind act, but under the circumstances it was thought advisable to change the hours of recitation to the afternoon and occupy the college rooms. The college professors very generously placed their rooms at the disposal of the Faculty, and the recitation rooms of Dr. Rogers and Professors Ridgway and McNeill were chosen. The regular recitations began without the loss of an hour, at one o'clock Tuesday, according to this plan, and are prospering. The inconvenience is considerable, of course, on both sides, but it is greatest upon the part of the college proper, as it crowds the rooms and occupies them at hours when they ought to be left free for other purposes. The second step taken was to notify the President of the Board of Trustees of the calamity, and request an immediate session of the Board to be called at Greencastle. Then a committee consisting of President Martin, Resident Trustee Southard, and the Principal of the Department, was appointed to secure skilled assistance necessary in preparing complete plans of a building suitable to all the wants of the Department and with such other halls and rooms as are needed by the University, and to have said plans ready to be presented at the meeting of the Board.

FBI, AIR FORCE PROBE CRASHES OF EIGHT JETS

THREE PILOTS KILLED, TWO HURT; PLANES CRASH IN STATE

RICHMOND, Ind., June 9.—(UP)—Air Force and FBI agents investigated today whether sabotage caused eight F-84 Thunderjet fighters to crash in the biggest multiple airplane disaster in peacetime history.

Three pilots were killed and two injured late yesterday when the planes crashed mysteriously while flying in a flight of 71 planes through an electrical storm. The three other pilots were unhurt.

At least two pilots said their engines exploded after they were safely through the storm. Another said his engine "conked out" and that he saw at least two of the ships collide. All the planes crashed in a 25-mile radius near here.

An air force spokesman said it apparently was the biggest number of planes ever lost during a peacetime operation. The biggest previous, to his recollection, was when a flight of pursuit planes flew into bad weather near Raleigh, N. C., in 1939, and six were lost.

Sixty of the planes in yesterday's flight flew on to Selfridge Field, Mich., but three others turned back and landed at Wright-Patterson Field, near Dayton, O., where they had taken off only 10 minutes before the crashes.

The planes were escort fighters assigned to the strategic bomber command whose chief, Lt. Gen. Curtis LeMay, flew here today to take personal charge of the investigation.

Heavily armed air police guards surrounded the wrecks here and the planes of the flight at Selfridge Field and Dayton. Mechanics began making an inch-by-inch check of every part of the wrecks and the surviving planes, seeking evidence of possible sabotage that may have caused the planes to crash.

G-men cooperated with the Air Force investigators. The Air Force refused all comment on the trend of the investigation, but one spokesman said "sabotage is always considered as a possibility until the cause of the crash has been determined or the investigation completed."

Another said the extreme turbulence encountered in thunderstorms buffets jet fighters more than piston-engined ships since the jets travel twice as fast. But he knew of no reason why turbulence might cause a jet engine to "conk out," or explode.

The surviving pilots of the downed ships made only brief statements to police before Air Force officers arrived from Dayton and clamped tight security over them and the crash scenes. Capt. Bryce Long, who crash landed 17 miles west of Richmond, said his plane had cleared the storm when "my engine exploded," sending his ship plunging earthward.

Another pilot who would not give his name said he experienced "two explosions" and added that two other members of the flight had told him by radio that they, too, were having trouble.

Long crawled away from his ship unhurt. Maj. Richard E. Willis and 2nd Lt. John Donor parachuted. Willis's craft plowed into the ground near Fountain City, Ind., and Bonor's crashed near Cambridge City. They suffered slight injuries. Capt. R. A. Jackson suffered lacerations when he rode his ship to a crash landing that jammed the runway of the Municipal Airport at Boston, Ind., South of here.

1st Lt. E. D. Coltharp escaped injury when his ship crashed near Straughn, Ind.

Pleads Guilty On Two Counts

Grover Lontz, Jr., 26, of Kentland, pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving and failure to stop after an accident when arraigned before Judge John H. Allee in the Putnam circuit court Friday afternoon.

Evidence in the case revealed that Thursday noon the car operated by Lontz sideswiped a parked auto belonging to Rev. C. A. Newby, on North Jackson street near the Nazarene church and also a car being driven by Mary A. Dean. Lontz did not stop but continued north until he was apprehended by a state police officer in the vicinity of Crawfordsville.

Lontz told the court that he had driven two young men from Kentland to Terre Haute and was on his way home when he hit the two machines.

It was also brought out that his car brakes were not working when he was brought back to Greencastle. Lontz testified that he did not have any insurance. Damage to the two cars was estimated at approximately $100. Judge Allee remanded Lontz to the custody of the sheriff so that the defendant could get in touch with his parents by telephone in Kentland and see if they could furnish money to cover the damages, fines and costs.

DR. WILDMAN RETIRES AFTER LONG SERVICE

WAS PRESIDENT OF D'PAUW UNIVERSITY FOR PAST 15 YEARS

Dr. Clyde E. Wildman, for 15 years president of DePauw University, retires this month after having held the president's chair longer than any other man in the 114-year history of the school.

A strong advocate of the independent college, Dr. Wildman is a recognized leader in the field of liberal arts education. He is a native of Greensburg and a DePauw graduate in the class of 1913.

Dr. Wildman's long career has included study in foreign lands, public-school teaching, college teaching, and administration. He was dean of Cornell College, Mt. Vernon, Ia., for two years, later becoming professor of English Bible at Syracuse University and subsequently professor of Old Testament history and religion at Boston University's School of Theology.

During his presidency of DePauw, which he accepted in 1935, Dr. Wildman was instrumental in acquiring more than $3,000,000 in grants and endowment. Four major campus buildings—Harrison Hall (science), Mason Hall (women's residence), Blackstock Stadium, and the Memorial Student Union Building—have been constructed during his tenure, and three additional buildings were acquired: Locust Manor (residence hall), the Art Center, and the O'Hair Medical building.

Also constructed have been a new Foods Laboratory building, a greenhouse for the Botany department, and more than 70 veteran housing units erected following World War II.

Dr. Wildman's presidency has also been marked by a liberalizing of the school's curriculum, reorganization of the faculty, and many curriculum changes, including a new "area major," the experimental curriculum in general education, and a "binary program" in engineering offered in connection with three technical schools.

Also during his presidency the enrollment increased from a pre-war 1200 to a number in excess of 2100 immediately after World War II.

Dr. Wildman took his academic work at DePauw, the Bluff School of Theology, Boston University, the United Free Church College at Glasgow, Scotland, and the University of Basel, Switzerland.

He holds honorary degrees from Cornell College, Wabash College, Northwestern University, Northwestern University, Rose Polytechnic Institute, and Boston University.

As an ordained minister, he served pastorates in Tyngsboro and East Saugus, Mass. He has been a member of several Methodist conferences, of the University Senate of the Methodist Church, the American Association of University Professors, and was chairman of the division of social forces on the Indiana War History Commission.

Recently he has been appointed a member of the Advisory Council on Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases of the National Institute of Health, a member of the board of trustees of the Indiana Heart Foundation, and a life member of the Indiana Association of Church Related and Independent Colleges, of which he has been president.

He has also been president of the Indiana Conference on Higher Education and the National Association of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist Church, and vice-president of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Dr. and Mrs. Wildman, who was a DePauw graduate in the class of 1915, will make their home in Indianapolis following his retirement from the DePauw presidency.

PRESIDING BISHOP

Bishop Richard C. Raines

The sessions of the Northwest Indiana Conference will open in the Goshen Church Wednesday and continue through Sunday. It will mark the one hundredth session of the conference and a large number of visitors are expected to attend.

New DPU Prexy Still Unknown

The DePauw University board of trustees has not yet reached a decision on a successor to Dr. Clyde E. Wildman, president of the institution, Howard C. Shepherd, board president, said Friday evening following the board's board's annual meeting here.

"The special committee has practically concluded its investigation of candidates," Mr. Shepherd said. "The names of several men have been under discussion, and I expect to be able to present the committee's recommendation to the full board within a short time."

C. Of C. Plans Broiler Show

The Greencastle Chamber of Commerce is planning a new project in connection with the annual Fall Festival that should prove of much interest.

They plan to get business men in Greencastle to underwrite a 4-H boy and girl to the extent of 50 baby chicks. They are to be given to the 4-H boys and girls, who will raise them to broiler stage. A broiler show will be held on September 27, at which time the boys and girls will exhibit six of their best birds. After the judging, when cash awards will be made, three of the chicks will be used by the committee for a chicken dinner, with all the trimmings, for the businessmen-4-H member and their families.

Farm Bloc Seen Over Beef Order

WASHINGTON, June 9 (UP)—Republicans agreed today to help rush controls extension legislation through congress, but the administration had a new headache with the beef price rollback.

As President Truman won assurances of cooperation from leaders of both parties for extension of the Defense Production Act, the House Agriculture committee threatened to lead a farm bloc drive for a congressional veto of the beef order.

Committee members authorized Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D. N. C., to tell the administration that it will decide within a few days what—if any—action to take if the government does not cancel the beef order "immediately."

Despite this action, however, President Truman was reported to have told congressional leaders that the beef program is a good one. He was said to have told the group that he knows as much about beef as most other people, and doesn't think the order will hurt the beef industry.

"The rollback is intended to drive down retail beef prices by 9 to 10 cents a pound by fall. Cattlemen have protested vehemently that it will lead to a drop in beef production and black markets in beef."

Mr. and Mrs. Lester VonTress of Coatesville R. 2, are the parents of a son born Saturday morning.

UNION BLDG. IS MEMORIAL TO DPU WAR DEAD

FORMAL DEDICATION HELD IN BALLROOM SATURDAY NOON

The Memorial Student Union building at DePauw University was formally dedicated this noon at a ceremony held in the ballroom of the new $750,000 structure.

President Clyde E. Wildman dedicated the building in memory of DePauw's 105 World War II dead, and Lloyd M. Cline, Bluffton, national chairman of the fund drive for the building, presented it to the board of trustees.

Howard C. Shepherd, president of the board, accepted the building in behalf of DePauw University.

Main speaker at the ceremony was Col. David M. Shoup, U.S.M.C. Congressional Medal of Honor winner and combat leader at the invasion of Tarawa. A graduate of the class of 1926, Colonel Shoup spoke on "DePauw Men in the War."

Iran A. Brown, Niles, Mich., student president of the Union Building board, also spoke, and Robert E. Crouch, director of the union, took part in the ceremony. The invocation was given by Dr. James V. Claypool, a DePauw graduate in 1921 who has an outstanding record as a war-time chaplain, and Dr. Freemond E. Fribley, Tipton, class of 1911, gave the benediction. The University Choir, directed by George Gove, sang.

In addition to the Memorial Room honoring the 105 war dead, the new building contains eight additional memorials. The Osborn Memorial Lounge, is named in memory of Arthur E. Osborn '04, and the fireplace in the lounge was given in memory of Howard C. Shepherd Jr. of the class of 1943.

The Music Listening Room was given by Clarence A. Cook, '33, as a memorial to his wife and son, and the Grille Room, a gift of Ernest M. and Natalie Coffin Sims, class of '19, honors the memory of Charles F. Coffin, '31.

The offices of the director of the union are a gift of the Barnaby family in memory of the late Charles Howard Barnaby, widely known lumberman and long-time trustee of DePauw.

The beautifully appointed Faculty Lounge is a gift of Edgar A. Prevost, Greencastle businessman and a graduate in the class of '12, and Gordon Prevost. The office of the alumni secretary and the alumni staff room were both given in memory of Dr. Henry C. Clippinger, '32. The facilities in the second-floor reception room were a gift of Phi Omega Pi, a social sorority at DePauw from 1924 to 1933.

Will it pay for Asbury, with all her modern wants, to rebuild that old shell according to the plan of fifty years ago?

The Senior Preparatory engaged in a contest with the Freshmen during the fire and came out victorious.

Prof. Baker's dog was hung in a tree during the fire. A great many persons declared that it was no dog, and cogitated a good while to determine what sort of a wild animal it really was.

E. H. Ketcham, a graduate of Dartmouth, and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, spent Tuesday and yesterday in this city, making plans for the new building.

Col. Ray wrote as soon as he received a telegram announcing the loss, "Good bye, old building, around which clusters myriads of memories. Too bad, too bad, that so grand a history should be closed by fire."

Fishin' Fun

This column has been out on a limb all summer, due to our amateurish forecasting of the weather, and we hereby resolve that in the future, no weather forecasts will be forthcoming from this direction. Therefore, if this weather should change for the better, you will know that it happened because the weather man has just been stubborn all season, and just wouldn't co-operate with us. However, we might add that the new rubber crickets we have received today, may make the fish disregard the weather and strike this week end.

Give Her a Rock

A woman left her husband the other day and took along her two young children and the family toaster.

After two weeks the husband came to the conclusion that she had left him for good.

He notified the police and was asked whether they had done much fighting at home.

"No," said the husband. "We were reasonably happy. We have had only the usual number of quarrels."

What IS the usual number of quarrels?

When does the number of quarrels become UNUSUAL?

When do these "unusual" quarrels occur so often and become so violent that eventually they become unbearable and lead to divorce?

There is also a "usual number" of quarrels and disagreements among nations.

Usually they can be settled — if both sides to the quarrel are reasonable and inclined to compromise.

Compromise is not cowardice. It is common sense.

Nature teaches us that.

When your feet get cold you don't just go around cussing nature and going outdoors to fight her.

You COMPROMISE. You turn on the heat. You protect your plants. You put up storm doors and cover your rhododendrons with burlap. You go and get warm socks.

And when it gets hot you again compromise with Nature. You

Looking at Life

ERICH BRANDEIS

Six months ago a local haberdasher ran an advertisement headed:

"Feet cold? Buy warm socks!" Today that same store's ad reads:

"Feet hot? Buy cool socks!" Six months ago we were complaining about the cold.

Now we are kicking about the heat.

Three months ago we had a flood that washed away some of our soil and threatened to kill the dormant plants.

Today the ground is dry as dust and the drought threatens to wither all vegetation.

There is always SOMETHING to kick about, to worry about, to struggle with.

"Divine discontent" a poet called it.

The only "divine" feature about it that I can see is that probably God, in His wisdom, knew that it is not good for us to live in unalloyed happiness.

Humans apparently can't stand too much of anything.

Too much contentment makes people lazy.

Too much money makes them get into mischief.

Too much food makes them fat and gives them indigestion.

Too much progress makes them overvalue the material things and neglect the spiritual side of life.

After two weeks the husband came to the conclusion that she had left him for good.

He notified the police and was asked whether they had done much fighting at home.

"No," said the husband. "We were reasonably happy. We have had only the usual number of quarrels."

The presentation was by Miss Eileen Egan of the National Catholic Welfare Conference. The shipment of vitamins were flown to India where they are being distributed among children suffering from malnutrition.

Many 'ifs' to Question: Will Truman Run Again?

HST Alone Knows Answer And He's Keeping Silent

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Political experts in Washington are about evenly divided on the question of whether President Truman will run for re-election in 1952. One group of politicians believes that the world situation may be the deciding factor in the President's mind. They say Mr. Truman will run again if he feels he's needed to continue policies to prevent a new world war. Another segment of political observers is convinced that Mr. Truman would like to leave the White House because he is tired of the burden the presidency places upon him, and wants a quieter life. Still a third group feels that Mr. Truman may be persuaded to run by the Democratic party leadership. These observers say he may seek re-election only in an effort to keep the party in power.
